PLEDGING TO HELP

Hundreds get behind campaign to assist refugees and migrants

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

REFUGEES are welcome in Haringey, declare hundreds of people and businesses from the borough who have signed a pledge of "humanity and progress".

The Selby Trust, the organisation behind the community-led Selby Centre, in Selby Road, Tottenham, has organised a campaign to show that Haringey can be a refuge for those around the world escaping war and persecution.

Hundreds have thrown their support behind a pledge to welcome migrants and refugees, including the main political parties, Haringey Trades Union Council, Positive Youth News Haringey and online neighbourhood network Haringay Online.

Sona Mahtani, the trust's chief executive, said Haringey has been home to refugees for centuries, from the Huguenots who settled in Tottenham in the 16th century, to those fleeing from Somalia, Congo and Albania and other countries, who call the borough home today.

In fact, she points out, a particularly well-equipped support network has been honed in Haringey over the years.

"People from each one of those communities have contributed to make Haringey, London and our country a better place to live," she said.

"As a borough, our motto is Progress with Humanity – we want to help those who are in need and welcome them to Haringey. The borough has a lot of the infrastructure that can be difficult to put into place – from places like the Selby Centre, to support with finding jobs and housing and support in learning English as a second language."

Any resident, business or organisation in Haringey interested in expressing support in welcoming refugees can sign the pledge and join the campaign. People are also urged to share the word on by tweeting a photo of themselves with the downloadable pledge card to @SelbyTrust

Faiths gather to consider implications of climate change

PEOPLE of all faiths gathered at Finsbury Park mosque to take part in a discussion on climate change.

The discussion on Tuesday last week preceded the UN climate change conference, due to take place in Paris next month.

Mohammed Kozbar, director of the mosque, in St Thomas's Road, explained that the aim of the evening was to discuss Christian and Muslim approaches to the environment.

Speakers Fatima Said, a student at the School of Oriental and African Studies, and Barbara Kentish, from the Westminster Roman Catholic Diocese's Justice and Peace group quoted from the traditions of their respective faiths.

They found that the Islamic Declaration on Climate Change, Pope Francis' document Laudato Si and the Anglican Lambeth statement on the environment propose many similar solutions, such as leading a simpler lifestyle with fewer material possessions, moving away from dependence on fossil fuels and establishing a fund for helping poorer countries to develop in a sustainable manner.

More than 80 people attended the event and questions provoked a discussion about the refugee crisis, war, the arms trade and homelessness.

At the end of the evening Mr Kozbar said that he was very encouraged to see so many there, adding: "We never expected so many people to come."

The mosque already collaborates with other church and community groups to offer meals and shelter to the homeless, English language classes, sports and youth activities.

Mr Kozbar hoped the evening marked the start of a long collaboration between different faith groups to help combat climate change.

Women unhurt after house fire

AN elderly woman escaped a blaze at a house in Wood Green last week.

Four fire engines and 21 firefighters were called to the property in Granville Road, just before 3.30pm on Wednesday.

The first floor of the building and half of the roof was damaged by the fire and the woman was taken to hospital as a precaution.

The fire was brought under control by just after 4.30pm. The cause of the blaze is being investigated.

'We have a moral duty to help'

MP says the UK must do more for refugees

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

HUMANITY and compassion should propel the UK to do more to help desperate Syrian refugees, an MP has insisted.

While his government has been criticised for its stance on the crisis, the Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate David Burrowes says more could be done.

"It shouldn't take a desperate picture of a lost life to spur us into action," Mr Burrowes told the Advertiser, referring to the photo of Syrian boy Aylan Kurdi lying dead on a Turkish beach.

"We can do more by providing refuge to the thousands of migrants fleeing to Europe," he said. "I think everyone who has seen the news is concerned.

"My role is to spur the government into action. The UK is currently getting in the region of 200 refugees. We must be able to up that. We have a moral duty to do more."

Mr Burrowes entered the debate on Wednesday last week by posting a tweet which read: "At the very least we should accept one per cent of refugees because we accept more than one per cent responsibility".

The MP, who is vice-chairman of the all-party parliamentary group on refugees and who has been involved in an inquiry into the treatment of refugees in the UK, supported the upping of the UK's quota of Syrian refugees by 100 back in June. He said he had emphasised at the time that the increase was insufficient and he did not want to be in that situation again, "knowing we should have done more".

The father of six has received much correspondence from constituents on the issue.

"The majority are supportive of my stance on this," he said, "and they are people who aren't always supportive of me, from across the political spectrum.

"Some have got in touch to say we should have more control of our borders. I also believe we should have more control of the situation, but that doesn't mean we shouldn't also act with more compassion."

Prime Minister David Cameron

'More compassion': Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes

announced on Monday that the UK will accept up to 20,000 refugees from Syria over the next five years.

Fundraiser: Karen Nash in Karen's Kitchen at St Luke's Church

'Together we can make a difference,' says Karen

A DAY of activities to raise funds for refugees will take place this week

Starting at 11am on Friday in Karen's Kitchen, in St Luke's Church, Phipps Hatch Lane, Enfield, there will be a raft of activities for parents and pre-school children, including arts and crafts, face painting and massage.

In the afternoon and into the evening there will be activities for older children and adults as well as music, food and drink, a table-top sale and a raffle.

Organiser Karen Nash said: "We are hoping that as many people come as possible.

"If you can play an instrument, read a story, bake a cake, donate food, or donate good quality items to sell, please do get in touch."

Karen is also appealing for donations of wine for the evening event and would love anyone who wants to volunteer to get in touch.

All funds raised from the day are going to the Migrant Offshore Aid Station, which runs an expedition vessel and a team of rescuers and paramedics working in the Mediterranean searching for refugees coming from north Africa.

So far the charity has saved 11,124 lives.

Karen added: "I've been worrying about the refugee crisis for some months now. I don't have a lot of money, but together we can make a difference."

Anyone who would like to get involved can call Karen on 07818 405501 or contact her through the cafe's Facebook page www.facebook.com/KarensKitchenAtStLukes

A need for change: Andrew Larssen with four-year-old daughter Charlotte

Andrew Larssen, 36, is a director of a software company and father-of-two, who lives near Broomfield Park in Palmers Green

"MOST of the people I'm speaking to while campaigning on behalf of Enfield Cycle Campaign are actually supportive of the scheme," explained Mr Larssen.

He claimed that the biggest barrier to cycling is perceived risk, and believes that creating cycle lanes – slowing down and reducing traffic – would be good for all.

"There are so many benefits to the scheme," he said. "I'm keen on cycling, but first and foremost, I'm a parent and local resident. I care much more about the idea of living in a nice place and wouldn't want a scheme that was good for cyclists at the expense of the local area."

"My family and I regularly go to Palmers Green and Winchmore Hill using public transport as well as walking and cycling, but I'm also a driver."

He points to the hundreds of planned new houses in Palmers Green, many of which will have no parking provision.

"Enfield needs to change," he said. "Populations in the outer boroughs like this are only going to get more dense as time goes on, so we need to build transport that is appropriate to the next century, rather than the last century. We need alternatives to the car and we don't have the space to just keep putting more and more cars on the road. A lot of people's thinking is just outdated."

We want to ride our bicycles...

SUPPORTERS of Cycle Enfield have expressed support for the scheme in the face of "outdated" critical thinking from members of the borough's business community, writes Lucy Purdy.

Enfield was chosen as one of three main winners in the Greater London Authority's "mini-Holland fund", receiving nearly £30million towards making the cycling environment more attractive.

After reading about the Save Our Green Lanes campaign group's scathing attack on the consultation – with concerns centred around a loss of on-street parking along Green Lanes – people contacted the Advertiser to express their support for the project

Cycling is a healthier, more environmentally-friendly, enjoyable and less congesting way to get around, they say, so why not work together to seize this opportunity for the benefit of all?

To find out more details of the proposals, go to www.cycleenfield.co.uk

A family affair: Claire Rogers and her children

Clare Rogers, 43, is a freelance editor, a mother-of-two and a Palmers Green resident of 18 years

PASSIONATE about encouraging active and independent travel in children, she said she immediately felt "really excited" to hear of the cycling proposals.

"If children are driven everywhere by car, which is what we increasingly do as parents, it has an impact upon their sense of independence and their emotional development," she told the Advertiser.

On researching air pollution levels in London and reading a blog, The View from the Cycle Path, by David Hembrow, she made an on-the-spot decision not to use the car for the school run again.

"Instead, I cycle to school with my daughters – eight and 11 – on the pavement as they don't feel safe on the road," she said.

"My eight-year-old has travelled to school independently, which I encourage because I want my children to grow up to be independent and confident."

To squander the multi-million-pound fund, she said, would be a "missed opportunity" and she believes the proposals could have a "transformational impact" on the economies of Palmers Green and Winchmore Hill.

"To those opposing the cycle lanes, I do understand their anxiety in facing change," she added. "The positive changes that cycle infrastructure brings can be surprising even for those who are in favour – such as cycle lanes in New York reducing accidents to pedestrians and increasing local retail sales. None of that had been predicted."

"Closer to home, Waltham Forest's mini-Holland scheme has made some daring changes. Many residents who opposed the plans changed their minds when trials showed they were getting a more pleasant environment and none of the traffic chaos they'd expected."

In the saddle: Adrian Lachlan

Adrian Lachlan, 57, is a Southgate Cycling Club member and borough co-ordinator for the London Cycling Campaign in Enfield

WHILE approximately half of residents own a bike, only a tiny fraction of these actually use them on the borough's roads, said Mr Lachlan.

"The reason is a fear of traffic and fear of being knocked over. People don't even have the confidence to be able to get to the local shops safely on a bike," he said.

Mr Lachlan cycles to his work at a software company in Liverpool Street each day, allowing him to incorporate exercise into his daily routine, as well as riding out on Sundays with the "friendly and fun" Southgate Cycling Club.

"In the mornings, I pass so many cars stuck in queues and the journey also gives me valuable time to think," he said.

In any case, the money isn't proposed to go simply on cycling provision, he points out, but is about improving the area itself.

"There is evidence that increasing the number of cyclists through creating cycle paths has a positive impact upon the entire environment of an area, including on the value of houses," he added.

"I've run businesses in the past and I understand that business owners feel threatened. But I really don't see that cycling paths are going to destroy anybody's business."

"I think people are just scared of change and then it becomes difficult to persuade somebody that change may be to their benefit."

"I would love to invite anybody to come out on a ride with the cycling club and see what we're all about."

METASWITCH NETWORKS, the world's leading network software provider, were delighted today to become a corporate sponsor of Zebras Childrens Club in Enfield, a non-profit social organisation helping children with disabilities.

Zebras was founded by Metaswitch employee Jamie Ashton, caters to children ages 4 to 16 by creating a welcoming environment and focusing on activities that promote individuality, integration and inclusion for children, adults and caregivers. Zebras meets every other Saturday in Boleyn Community Hall in Enfield.

"This donation will go a long way to helping us provide our services to our members and the local community who often find they have nowhere else to turn to for support and advice," said Jamie.

"We are delighted to help Zebras," said Alison Jackson of Metaswitch. "We have seen how the help and guidance that they give really makes a difference to people lives."

In the attached photo, Alison Jackson and Gill Paschalis, representing Metaswitch's Community Affairs team, present a cheque to the founding members of Zebras - Harriet Piercy and Jamie Ashton. Organiser Roman Pasika, chairman of the Waltham Forest branch of the Association of Ukrainians in Great Britain, who organised the festival with the Friends of Forty Hall, said: "For the second year running we had an amazing day. The sun shone and hundreds of people attended."

"The food was very popular. They cooked 5,000 vareniki (a kind of dumpling) and sold out before the end of the day. A star attraction was the top chef and cookery writer Olia Hercules. There was a long queue at her stall all day."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

ADVERTISEMENT

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

Jail for people smugglers who held immigrants hostage in flat

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

SEVEN men, including two from Edmonton, have been jailed for their role in a people smuggling operation which saw a group of Indians held hostage in a flat in the borough.

Major Bajwa, 44, and Kuldeep Singh, 37, both Indian nationals living in the UK, arranged for seven of their criminal associates to smuggle a number of fellow Indian nationals into the country.

Among these seven were Soran Rasul, 29, of Plowman Close, Edmonton, and Bijar Sheikhha, 27, who lived at the same address.

The others were Barzan Kamal, 28, from Cardiff, Karzan Rasoul, 24, from Essex, Burhan Abdul Sheikhany, 29, of Feltham, Middlesex, Liaquat Jabbarkhel, 23, an Afghanist national, and Fahmi Hakim, 32, from Hillingdon, west London.

The plan was that each of the immigrants would pay £10,000 to agents in India and would then pay another £10,000 on arrival in the UK.

It was planned that the smuggled people would be handed to Bajwa and Singh when they arrived in the UK.

Instead, Kamal and the six others imprisoned the victims in the flat in Plowman Close.

The gang then demanded more money from Bajwa and Singh.

However, their plan was foiled when police received a call on November 5 last year claiming a number of people were being held captive at an address in Edmonton and would not be released unless a ransom of £10,000 was paid for each victim.

The Met's Trafficking and Kidnap Unit launched an operation to locate and rescue the victims, quickly uncovering that members of the criminal gang had fallen out with each other.

It transpired that Bajwa had coerced a relative into calling police in a bid have his co-conspirators arrested, but it was quickly established that Bajwa was behind the call and he was subsequently arrested.

An investigation by the trafficking and kidnap unit resulted in the other members of the gang being arrested.

More than £80,000 in cash was also seized during the course of the investigation.

The victims were referred to the Home Office.

On Friday, six people were sentenced for conspiracy to facilitate a breach of immigration law, possession of criminal property and five counts of false imprisonment.

Sheikhany, Rasul, Sheikhha and Jabbarkhel were each jailed for 12 years, Hakim was sentenced to 11 years' in prison and Singh was jailed for 11 years.

Rasoul was sentenced to 12 years on the same charges at the same court yesterday.

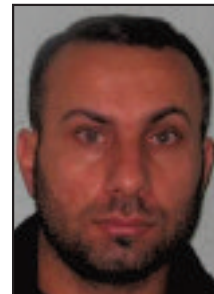

Bajwa is scheduled to be sentenced for conspiracy to facilitate a breach of immigration law at Southwark Crown Court on October 6.

A warrant for Kamal's arrest was issued after he absconded while the jury considered their verdict against him.

He was found guilty of conspiracy to facilitate a breach of immigration law, possession of criminal property and five counts of false imprisonment and was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment in his absence.

Investigating officer Detective Constable Kieran Backhouse, of the trafficking and kidnap unit, said: "I am very pleased with the sentencings which sends out a strong message that people smugglers face the full might of the law and can expect substantial jail terms. I urge anyone with information about the whereabouts of Kamal to call the trafficking and kidnap unit on 020 7230 8952, or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111."

Jailed for 12 years: Bijar Sheikhha, top, and Soran Rasul

£90,000 fine for fraudster who sold counterfeit goods online

A FRAUDSTER caught selling fake goods online has been fined tens of thousands of pounds.

Atif Khan, of Lockyer Mews, Enfield Lock, pleaded guilty to 15 Trade Marks Act offences at Wood Green Crown Court last week after he had been caught by Enfield Council selling fake goods on the Assistworld website.

He was fined £90,000 and ordered to pay £35,000 to the council in costs.

He was also given a 12-month sentence suspended for two years and ordered to carry out 200 hours of unpaid work.

The council's trading standards team searched Khan's home, where he based his online business, and found hundreds of counterfeit fitness products, educational DVDs and bras, all of which were seized, along with documents and computers.

Officers also confiscated goods held for Khan, 34, at warehouses in Leicester and Milton Keynes.

Evidence showed that his accounts had been suspended on websites due to supplying fake goods. The UK Border Agency had also written to him about counterfeit goods supplied from China.

Daniel Anderson, the cabinet member for environment, said: "I am delighted that through officers' painstaking efforts Enfield Council has led a successful prosecution and brought a prolific internet fraudster to book. However, I'd strongly advise the public to take great care when buying online as the net is awash with fake goods.

"Nonetheless, Mr Khan's prosecution has helped prevent thousands of counterfeit goods from flooding the market."

Four plead guilty to Hatton Garden jewel raid charge

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO men from Enfield have pleaded guilty to playing a part in the multi-million-pound Hatton Garden jewel heist.

A gang of thieves broke into a concrete underground vault in Holborn over the Easter weekend this year and ransacked locked vaults – making off with what is believed to be £10million worth of jewels.

Daniel Jones, 58, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park, and Terence Perkins, 67, of Heene Road, Enfield, pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit burglary at Woolwich Crown Court on Friday.

Both men denied a separate count of intent to conceal, disguise, convert or transfer a quantity of jewellery and other items and the prosecution agreed to drop that charge.

John Collins, 74, of Islington, north London, and Brian Reader, 76, of Dartford, Kent, entered the same pleas.

Hugh Doyle, 48 of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, pleaded not guilty to conspiracy to burgle and not guilty to intent to conceal, disguise, convert or transfer a quantity of jewellery and other items.

John Harbinton, 42, of Benfleet, Essex and William Lincoln, 59, of Bethnal Green, east London, also pleaded not guilty to both charges.

A trial date has been set for November 16 for those who have pleaded not guilty.

Sentencing for the four who have pleaded guilty will take place after that date.

The police believe they have recovered most of the jewels stolen in the raid during which thieves drilled into the vault and ransacked 72 safe deposit boxes.

Laura Perkins, 40, of Manor Court, Enfield, Brenn Walters, 43, also known as Ben Perkins, of the same address, and Terri Robinson, 35, and her husband Steven Robinson, 46, both of Sterling Road, Enfield, appeared in court on Friday afternoon accused of conspiracy to conceal or disguise, convert or transfer criminal property.

All four are due in court again on November 12 for a plea and case management hearing.

Building plans worry residents

Green belt proposals could pose threat to wildlife

WILDLIFE and residents will suffer if a developer is allowed to build on a cherished part of Enfield's green belt, campaigners say.

A proposal by Fairview New Homes to build on land near Cotswold Way and Enfield Road, opposite Trent Park, in Oakwood, has prompted concern from people who live nearby.

They say that to build on the plot – designated as an area of special character and home to several protected oak trees as well as a stretch of historic hedgerow – would “take away from the history of Enfield”.

The land in question is owned by the Diocese of London, which is thought to have entered into an agreement with Fairview in 2010 to manage the land on its behalf.

On hearing that Fairview intends to submit a planning application for a school, a further education college and about 300 homes, residents formed a group to monitor the situation.

One of those involved, Ian s, said: “The view and the beauty of this land can’t be denied and the field is packed with wildlife.

“Residents have reported seeing owls, bats, hedgehogs, birds including woodpeckers and Muntjac deer.

“We also have to consider the footfall that will be created by the homes and the school traffic that will be generated.

“Bincote Road already gets congested in the mornings and evenings and any problems on the M25 mean more traffic here.

“The green belt is very important to residents and we feel that a company like Fairview will only take away from the history of Enfield.”

A Fairview spokesman said he understood the “immediate concern from residents regarding the potential development proposals for the site” and was committed to addressing them.

He added: “We will be holding our first set of public exhibitions in September, details of which will be circulated in the coming weeks.

“These exhibitions will explain the opportunities for the site in greater detail and give local people a chance to leave their feedback, ask questions about the proposals and discuss any further issues they have, such as transport, with members of the project team.

“We will keep the local community fully informed of our plans for the site as they progress.”

At this stage no formal planning application has been submitted by Fairview.

However, the company has requested what is referred to as a scoping opinion, whereby a developer asks the planning authority to assess the feasibility of a potential plan, which would in this instance involve building an eight-form entry secondary school, with a four-form entry sixth-form college and housing.

KIDS Company, the charity which was headed by Camilla Batmanghelidj, supported young people whose neediness makes them difficult to deal with – angry, desperate and antisocial.

Half the time we tell ourselves that such youngsters can be tamed by love, hoodie-hugging, etc. At other times, especially after a confrontation with them, we incline more to the view that they should be birched, flogged or locked up.

Over the past 30 years, our governments have created an economy based on an insane housing market and sweatshop wages.

We have a “winners and losers” society – and you can expect some young people to be among the losers.

Don't expect them to be intensely relaxed about it.

There are no easy answers. It would help if there was more investment in the social network – youth services, job training, affordable housing.

But British governments don't do that sort of thing.

British politicians believe their own propaganda.

They think that social problems can be solved by the heroic efforts of outstanding individuals.

They cannot imagine a society in which ordinary people work together to tackle life's challenges.

That's why our politicians are easily fooled by any celebrity who claims that his (or her) personal charisma will make all the difference.

Refugee crisis makes me ashamed to be British

I'M interested to know what my MP Catherine West's views are on the refugee crisis and whether she's planning to put pressure on our government to demonstrate some heart and do something about the desperate and dire situation these poor families have found themselves in.

We've seen pictures of Germany opening its doors and its heart. It's time we followed suit, is it not?

At this moment I'm ashamed to be British. We're supposed to be at the forefront of democracy and liberal values, yet we are turning our backs on people who desperately need our help in favour of our own interests. Ten thousand extra people creates an insignificant impact to our population, especially when stacked against the bigger burdens to our economy.

This form was packed with loaded questions

I WAS surprised and disappointed to see a member of staff at the post office in Church Street in Enfield Town cajoling an elderly lady at the counter to ask her about her views regarding the proposed Cycle Enfield scheme.

The member of staff gave a very brief and biased overview of the scheme and then proceeded to prompt answers to the Enfield businesses' questionnaire which the staff member then filled in on the customer's behalf.

When I pulled the member of staff up on their bad practice, she asked: “I suppose you're from the pro-cycling group are you?”

I said that I was, so when I requested a copy of the questionnaire, she was initially reluctant to hand me a copy.

It came as no surprise to see that the form was clearly designed with subtly loaded questions to influence negative responses.

I've since heard that customers elsewhere in the town were also being asked to complete the questionnaire, although I didn't see this myself.

Members of staff at this post office tried to illicit negative customers comments on a scheme which clearly offers many more benefits to local people with cleaner air, less congested, safer and more attractive streets in which to shop and do business.

Can we see printed proposals?

HOW strong is the case for cycle lanes along Green Lanes?

Surely this should be determined by the number of casualties and who was to blame? So far, Cycle Enfield has ignored them in a discussion that suggests cycling is a low-risk activity.

It is obvious that cycle lanes along bus routes will conflict with pedestrians at bus stops unless the bus is given priority for space to safeguard its passengers. It is a daft idea to mix passengers with cyclists.

Green Lanes between Hedge Lane and the A406 is already a traffic-congested area and the addition of two cycle lanes will make it more congested and polluted. If Green Lanes is a high priority for cycle safety, why does it stop at the A406 and not continue to the Wood Green border?

Cycle Enfield is a major traffic project costing £41million. So far we have

Consultation: Residents got a chance to look at the proposals at The Fox pub, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, in July been asked to comment on individual maps of proposals. Will they be brought together in a final printed, detailed, costed report containing an impact assessment, which is normal practice with major projects – and should Enfield's residents be given a referendum within the terms of the Localism Act to determine the way ahead?

We cannot turn our backs on this suffering

FOR many months now we have all seen and heard terrible scenes of death and destruction striking thousands of refugees who are simply trying to escape intolerable conditions in their homelands.

For me, what brought the tears was not the sole child on a Mediterranean beach – I had already imagined many such events – it was the sight of huge crowds of angry but determined people in Budapest station struggling for their chance of life.

Vivid recollections of World War II stories sprang to mind – only this time it was people fighting to get on to trains, rather than fleeing them.

No doubt Germany's continued remorse fuels their determination to offer unlimited refuge to Syrians now.

But how can we in the UK fail to offer a welcome to today's desperate people, as we once did in the past?

David Cameron has now apparently relented enough to offer a haven to a few more thousand of these people. But this hardly sounds like enough.

I carry no torch for the Labour Party, but one of the current leadership contenders has made what could be a constructive suggestion to start grappling with this crisis, which is that all local authorities should hold meetings to discuss and encourage their communities to accept a fair number of refugees in their own areas.

So, I hope that our own council will take this up and that both central and local governments will make this a cross-party issue.

Of course, our present government has already placed severe austerity burdens on us and they have fallen most heavily on the young, the sick, the disabled, and the most helpless members of our own society.

This gives a perfect opportunity for the anti-immigration lobby to gather support and opposition to accepting more refugees.

But accept them we must. And welcome them. Humanity demands it.

Coming down: The tower blocks on the Alma estate will be demolished

All systems go for estate's regeneration

By Lucy Purdy

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

PONDERS End's Alma estate is poised to undergo a facelift after large-scale plans for its regeneration were passed at a council meeting last week.

Countryside Properties' scheme to transform the estate was given the green light by members of Enfield Council's planning committee.

The phased regeneration project will involve the demolition of the four recognisable, pastel-hued towers – Cormorant House, Curlew House, Kestrel House and Merlin House – as well as some properties in Silver Birch Court, Fairfield Close, Alma Road, Napier Road, Scotland Green Road and South Street.

Ponders End Youth Centre and Welcome Point Community Centre will also be demolished.

Some 990 homes, a maximum of 636 square metres of retail outlets, restaurants, cafés, a community centre and youth centre, a gym and a medical centre will be built in their place.

Ahmet Oykener, the cabinet member for housing and housing regeneration, said: "The regeneration of the Alma estate and surrounding area is an opportunity to improve the quality of life and housing standards for hundreds of people and transform an iconic part of Ponders End into a more desirable and attractive place in which to live. I am therefore delighted that our ambitious but deliverable aspirations for the Alma estate have been given the green light by the council's planning committee and I look forward to development of the site starting as soon as possible."

The development is expected to be take shape over seven phases of demolition and construction and to be completed by 2026.

Diamond couple set to celebrate 60 years of marriage

ROB BOURNE

Looking forward to their 60th wedding anniversary celebrations: George and Wyn Robinson at their home in Enfield

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHURCH youth club might not seem like the most romantic venue in the capital – but for one couple sparks flew when the club treasurer met the newest recruit.

Wyn and George Robinson, both 82, of Monks Road, Enfield, met in 1949 at St Philip's youth club, in Tottenham, when George was the treasurer and Wyn was a new member.

After a five-year courtship, the couple got married on September 17, 1955 – and 60 years later they are set to celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary surrounded by friends and family.

In their first years of marriage, George was posted overseas as he carried out his National Service duty as a ground wireless mechanic in the RAF.

One posting took him to Northern Ireland.

On his return to civvy street, George went into banking and the Robinsons moved from Tottenham to Enfield in 1962 and have lived in Monks Road ever since.

The couple had two daughters and Wyn stayed at home when they were little, but when they got older she set up her own accountancy business which she went on to run for ten years.

The girls are married now with their own families and George and Wyn have four grandchildren, aged from 16 to 23.

The couple told the Advertiser that the whole family was very close and this particular anniversary would involve more than one big celebration with a lunch next week planned for 27 guests.

Wyn and George have been very happy together since their wedding day back in 1955 and both said their one word of advice for a happy marriage would be “tolerance.”

George said: “You need to be tolerant and accept the other person.” Wyn added that “love and understanding” were also crucial.

BARNET AND SOUTHGATE COLLEGE MAKE THE GRADE IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

Over 500 Barnet and Southgate College students received their A and AS level results last week, many of them exceeding their own expectations. The results were better than last year with a marked increase in the higher grade passes. 100% pass rates were achieved in a number of subject's including: English Language, English Literature, History, Law, Government and Politics, Music Technology, Music, Film Studies and Photography. Successful students said the results were down to the style of teaching and the great atmosphere at the College, as well as the excellent facilities.

Lara Hegarty, aged 19 from Friern Barnet had a challenging start after not doing that well in her AS levels, but she turned things around for her A2's; her hard work and determination paid off of achieving A levels in English Literature (grade A), Sociology (grade A) and Government and Politics (grade B).

Lara said: "I'm so pleased I've actually got the grades and got my place at the University of Sheffield where I'll be studying Politics. Barnet and Southgate College has been the best atmosphere for me. I love the Wood Street campus; we're treated like adults and we work independently, which is great preparation for University. The environment is so professional and our tutors respect our opinions and it's a great place to learn, in fact my politics tutor inspired me to choose to go onto study that subject at University. Everyone that is here, is here for a reason, whether that's to get to University, study BTEC's or gain an apprenticeship. I love the fact that we're all taking our education seriously to achieve our career goals."

Bilal Khan is 18 years old and lives in Enfield, he achieved an amazing three A's in all his subjects today, which included: Law (grade A), Government and Politics (grade A) and Economics (grade A).

Bilal said: "I've exceeded my own expectations with my results today, I'm over the moon and really glad all my hard work has actually paid off. I'm going to Queen Mary College London to study Law and there I'm planning on getting my degree, then I hope to study for a Master's degree after which I hope to become a Barrister. The teaching and support has been exceptional here and I'm gutted to be leaving, but I'm excited about going to University. I'm grateful to Barnet and Southgate College for helping me achieve what I set out to do. I'm looking forward to studying further in London and fulfilling my career aspirations."

Finally Barnet and Southgate College student, Siobhan McNicholas, studied for A levels in: Sociology (grade A*), Psychology (grade A*) and English Language and Literature (grade B). The 19 year old, from Enfield is happy to have achieved the grades to accept a place at Nottingham University to study Sociology with Criminology. Siobhan said:

"I'm so pleased I managed to get two A stars today and a B! I've really enjoyed my time at College but I'm really looking forward to going to Nottingham University to study as I loved the campus there. But I also enjoyed my time at College, there are all sorts of people of all ages here, and you're supported by all the tutors in a mature way, so really it's much better preparation for University as it's a stepping stone to going onto higher education and life in general. The teaching has been outstanding but ultimately it's what you make of it that matters, if you work hard it will pay off."

Barnet and Southgate College Principal, David Byrne said: "Barnet and Southgate College has achieved some impressive A and AS level results this year with 100% pass rates in many subjects, which is testament to the hard work and dedication of our students. They should be very proud of their achievements, some are going onto study at prestigious universities, some will be staying on at College for their Higher Education and a number of them will be taking up apprenticeships or going straight into the workplace. However, not every student will have done as well as they had hoped and we'll be able to offer support and guidance on what to do next and in most cases be able to offer them a suitable course to follow. If anyone's unsure what to do next they can come in and see us at all College campuses for further advice and enrolment throughout the summer."

Survey reveals a ‘worrying’ number of people without a registered GP

By Lucy Purdy
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A WORRYING number of the borough’s residents may not be registered with a GP, a new report suggests.

Researchers from the borough’s health and social care watchdog Healthwatch Enfield carried out a snapshot survey of 145 Enfield residents, speaking to people in Edmonton.

Of those surveyed, 17 per cent were not registered with a GP.

The report says the findings indicate “a much larger problem”, with people being unable to provide proof of address as well as not understanding the need to register among the primary barriers to signing up with a family doctor.

Healthwatch Enfield chief executive Lorna Reith said: “We were shocked to find so many people who were not registered with a GP, including families with children.

“This is really worrying as GPs are the cornerstone of our health service.

“Children may be missing out on crucial immunisations and people may end up in hospital seriously ill as conditions are not picked up and treated at an early stage.

“We believe more can be done to provide people with information on how to register and surgeries with information on registering people without proof of address.”

NHS England guidance is clear that surgeries can provide alternative ways for people without proof of address to register, for example by issuing temporary registrations.

Healthwatch Enfield believes that surgeries could do more to promote this and recommends that work is undertaken in Enfield to ensure that all GPs are aware of alternative ways of registering individuals who do not have a proof of address.

Campaign calls time on ciggies

THE borough’s smokers are being urged to ditch the habit by taking part in a challenge to last a month without lighting up.

In preparation for Stoptober, the national campaign in October to get smokers to stop for good, Enfield Council will be distributing information about quitting cigarettes outside Edmonton Green’s Asda supermarket between noon and 4pm tomorrow.

Nneka Keazor, cabinet member for public health and sport, said:

“Research shows that if people can last for a month without smoking they are five times more likely to stop for good.

“So we want more smokers to try this challenge. We will be handing out information about smoking cessation courses in the borough and advice about the aids that can help.”

She reminded residents that smoking in cars in the presence of children becomes illegal from October 1, with offenders risking a fixed penalty £50 fine, which is enforceable by police.

The theme of this year’s campaign is comedy and three comedians – Tony Cowards, Nicky Wilkinson and Osman Balıkcıoğlu – will be on hand to provide entertainment.

Ms Keazor added: “Smokers who quit the habit are giving themselves the best gift.

No longer needing to smoke, they save money, feel fitter, enjoy tasty food and live longer.

“In Enfield, smoking is becoming increasingly unpopular with about 5,000 fewer people smoking than there were two years ago. The challenge now is to reduce the number of people smoking even further.”

Building for the future

FOR anyone interested in self-building, or in making renovations and improvements to their home, the up-and-coming London Homebuilding & Renovating Show is a must – and we have 20 pairs of tickets to give away.

Coinciding with the latest report that the South-East of the UK has seen the largest rise in self-builders in 2015 with the numbers increasing year on year by 16 per cent, the event, sponsored by Anglian Home Improvements, is set to attract thousands more visitors at ExCeL London from September 25 to 27. The event this year will celebrate the 25th anniversary of Homebuilding & Renovating magazine, the show's media partner and Britain's best-selling self-build publication.

To commemorate a quarter of a century of publishing for self-builders, the event at the impressive ExCeL exhibition centre will showcase how the property market and architectural and design trends, which have shaped the social aspects of the UK families, have evolved over this time.

In addition, throughout the three-day show, anyone who is still unsure how to undertake a project efficiently from inception to fruition will have access to expert guidance and tailored advice at 15-minute consultations, in-depth seminars and masterclasses hosted by the UK's leading property experts and companies.

The show's new location, ExCeL London, will see more exhibitors than ever before, with more than 350 companies displaying the latest products and services in the marketplace.

Gabrielle Blackman, the BBC's DIY SOS interior specialist, will be making her debut on the London show's expert panel to provide inspiration, advice and recommendations on how to tackle architectural and interior innovations.

For your chance to win tickets, just answer this simple question below:

■ Where is The Homebuilding & Renovating Show taking place – a) ExCeL b) NEC c) Manchester Central?

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Homebuilding & Renovating Show, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Homebuilding" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday, September 17.

Trio brave blisters to raise £3,000 for trio of charities

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THREE men laced up their walking boots and raised thousands of pounds for charity with a gruelling 24-hour hike through Hertfordshire and beyond.

Earlier in the year the Advertiser reported that three friends were determined to raise money for children's charities by walking 100 kilometres from London to Cambridge.

Tim Cunningham, 41, of Church Road, Ponders End, who works at AW Electrical Suppliers, in Great Cambridge Road, Enfield, the company's director Anthony Oliveri, 31, and David Percival, of DAP Electrical in Hoddesdon, a customer of AW Electrical, spoke at the beginning of the summer of their tough training regime in preparation for their hike from Hackney to Cambridge.

The trio set out in the early morning of August 28 from Hackney Marshes, aiming to set a pace of ten minutes per kilometre. Each man had a chosen charity he wanted to raise £1,000 for – Leukaemia Care, the Make a Wish Foundation and Diabetes UK.

The trio trekked alongside the River Lea to the village of Braughing on the River Quin with a brief stop to eat at the halfway mark before marching on to Cambridge, all within their target time.

This was not the first time Tim had braved blisters for charity. Last summer he led a team of eight colleagues and customers on a 100-kilometre trek up the banks of the River Thames, from Putney Bridge to Henley, again raising funds for good causes.

"This walk was extremely hard," said Tim. "This is the second time I've done it."

"I would like to say I'll never do it again, but I probably will. But the last ten kilometres were hell on earth."

Anthony also found the going pretty hard. "I'm feeling fine now, but there're a couple of us who will be losing our toenails soon I expect," he said.

In spite of the hardship, the hikers are proud that they were able to raise £3,000 in total for their charities with some funds still coming in.

Resident fined for breaking planning regulations over house extension

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A RESIDENT has been ordered to fork out thousands of pounds after building an illegal extension to his house.

Yasin Mohamedassen, of Medcalf Road, Enfield Lock, was fined £1,000 and ordered to pay costs of £4,500 and a victim surcharge of £100 at Wood Green Crown Court after being prosecuted by Enfield Council.

Mohamedassen was found guilty of failing to comply with a planning enforcement notice, and he was given until November 30 to carry out modifications, or face further action.

The court heard that Mohamedassen first came to the attention of the council in March 2012 after a member of the public complained about the size of the extension to the house.

A second person reported the extension in January 2013, saying it had been there for four years.

A planning enforcement notice was issued by the council on May 14, 2013, asking Mohamedassen to reduce the extension to a maximum depth of three metres by September 2013.

In October that year, an officer visited the premises and saw that no action had been taken.

In April, Mohamedassen was summoned to court to answer why he had not complied with the notice. At the hearing in May, he entered a plea of not guilty.

The judge at his trial at Wood Green Crown Court said the defendant had been "foolish".

The judge also said this was a "fight he could not win" and advised Mohamedassen he would incur further cost if did not alter the extension.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said planning rules were in place to protect residents from inappropriate and disruptive developments and it was unacceptable for any individual to ignore the law and instructions given by a local authority.

He added: "The ruling by the court is a clear warning to people who build without consideration to their neighbours or their surroundings, and think they can do whatever they want, regardless of the impact their activities have on people living near their homes."

Paradise on wheels

IT was a car enthusiast's dream on Sunday as hundreds of heritage, vintage and classic vehicles cruised into the grounds of Capel Manor, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield.

The oldest of the 800 vehicles on display at the annual car show was a 1912 fire engine loaned by Whitewebbs Museum, in Whitewebbs Road, Enfield.

Also appearing were a few vintage models, many post-war heritage cars and some glossy classics dating back to the 1970s.

Hundreds of visitors enjoyed displays from motoring legends Ford, Bentley and Rolls Royce.

The day was sponsored by David Burrows Electrical Ltd, of Enfield.

A company spokesman said: "It was a fantastic event, very well attended. There were some brilliant cars."

One of the highlights of the day was a Dakota flypast.

Many of the cars at the show were the same age as the veteran aircraft – and like it – are in tip-top condition.

Festival fun for everyone

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS descended on Broomfield Park over the weekend to enjoy a range of fun and festivities.

More than 7,000 people poured into the park, in Aldermans Hill, on Sunday to visit the fourth annual Palmers Green Festival.

There were more than 100 stalls, offering everything from children's games, to a special Friendship Zone for older residents.

The ever-popular dance field presented by Salsatiricity provided an opportunity to learn salsa, tango and more.

Two music stages promoted by Lester Clayton & Club Fabulous kept everyone dancing in the sunshine to acoustic rock, rap, hip-hop, blues, folk and reggae.

The festival was sponsored by Winkworth estate agents.

Festival founder and producer Phillip Chard said: "My team and I are proud to be organising such an event."

"The numbers have increased over the years."

"We reckon our success is down to providing something for everyone and a chance for people of different ages, cultures, and backgrounds to meet socially and, most importantly, have an enjoyable day out together."

He added that there was a question mark over whether the festival would return next year because it had become so big and there were currently only six organisers.

Anyone who would like to get involved in organising the festival can log on to www.palmersgreenfestival.org.uk

Smiles better: Millicent and Charlotte

Rest and relaxation: Festival goers enjoy a spot of yoga

WHAT'S NEW NEAR YOU

TURNING BACK THE CLOCK without resorting to surgery

It can feel as if there is constant pressure on us to look good (and young) at all times. Photographs of ourselves are often shared on social media, where friends and strangers alike can view our faces; sometimes taking the time to comment on or maybe 'like' a picture. Landmark events, such as special anniversaries, our children's wedding or the prospect of dating after a divorce or bereavement can also be motivating factors for us to look for ways to reduce the signs of an aging face. For actress Gillian Taylforth it was her impending 60th birthday!

Gillian is probably best known for her portrayal of Kathy Beale in East Enders. She has also appeared in The Bill, Footballers' Wives and Hollyoaks, as well as Celebrity Big Brother, Strictly Come Dancing and Loose Women.

Now 59 years old and not afraid to admit it, Gillian had always been meticulously careful to look after her face. Recently however, the popular TV star has had a non-surgical skin lift known as Silhouette Soft. She approached the procedure with great caution as her face needed to remain mobile and she wanted to continue to emote on her return to TV screens this autumn.

Commenting on her motivation to have a Silhouette Soft treatment Gillian said:

"As I approach my 60th birthday and HD TV improves I am aware that my appearance is scrutinised on television and in the press. I am keen to age appropriately, but I want to look good for my age too. However, as an actress it is vital that I have an expressive face – on the small screen it is often the smallest gestures which convey our inner emotions – and in fact on my most recent production, the producers would often caution younger actresses about treatments which prevented their faces from moving."

Subtlety is key

Like Gillian, we all strive to look the best we can for our age, and for those around us to believe we have achieved this naturally. Healthy diets and exercise are of course important, but occasionally nature needs a helping hand. Dr B Beheshti, from NL Clinic, Southgate concurs:

"We find our clients are looking for a 'natural looking' younger version of themselves. (Gone are the days of the 'trout pout'!) They want to look like themselves ... but on a really good day! Silhouette Soft is a ground-breaking new treatment which is known as the non-surgical skin lift (sometimes referred to as a thread lift). I recommend it to redefine the faces of patients looking for ways to combat sagging jowls and loss of volume in the midface area – but who don't want surgery. This is a notoriously hard area to treat effectively, yet Silhouette Soft produces an extremely natural-looking result which leaves the face completely mobile."

There is minimal downtime after treatment and the initial results are immediate. Even better, the results improve over the next three months! This is because the effects of the treatment are two pronged: The lifting effect is immediate and discreet - the tension of the inserted threads lift the sagging skin. The regenerative effect is gradual and natural - after insertion the reabsorbable cones on the thread anchor themselves into the tissues and stimulate the body to produce its own collagen. This action, which continues over time, helps increase the volume of jowly areas and restores a more youthful shapeliness to the face gradually to achieve a natural looking result.

The minimally invasive treatment can only be performed by a specially trained doctor. Local anaesthetic is applied to the face so that the patient does not feel a thing. Once numb a Silhouette Soft thread is introduced just under the skin. The procedure takes under an hour, and whilst there may be a small amount of bruising around the entry points, this can be covered with mineral make-up, allowing normal life to resume after treatment.

A typical Silhouette Soft treatment consists of four threads, and costs £1,500. Treatment is offered subject to the clinician confirming a patient's suitability, but typically suits someone aged 40+ who can push the skin on their face upwards by around a centimetre. A typical treatment lasts 18 months – 2 years.

Silhouette Soft is offered at NL Clinic. More information can be found at www.nlclinic.co.uk/

What's on and what's coming

A proud celebration of Jane Austen's heroines

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

BONNETS and bayonets should be at the ready for a one-off revival performance of a whirlwind tour of the Jane Austen's female characters.

Writer and performer Rebecca Vaughan is bringing her one-woman show to artsdepot, in Finchley, for a performance of Austen's Women, in which some of the author's best-loved characters are brought to life, without any of the love interests that have become so bound up with the Regency stories.

"I decided to focus on telling the stories of the women because I have found that the film and TV adaptations of the books tend to focus on the romance side of things and the witty authorial voice of Austen gets a bit lost," she says.

"I created this piece because I was really interested in getting to hear the voice of the women without the men around."

And Rebecca is determined to dispel some of the stereotypes of bonnets and bodices that surround the women of the Austen canon since the popularisation of her works through Hollywood films and lavish television productions.

"The women in the novels are not just decoration," she adds. "Austen was looking at the social conventions and laughing at them."

"Austen was looking at the ways in which women were trapped by society. The characters are by no means shallow – the women in her novels are well fleshed out. They are three dimensional and this production explores that."

Austen's Women is at artsdepot, in Nether Street, North Finchley, for a special matinee production on Saturday September 26.

Tickets can be booked via www.artsdepot.co.uk or by calling the box office on 020 8369 5454

I do Ron Ron Ron, I do

LEGEND (18, 131 mins)

TOM Hardy portrays both Ronnie and Reggie Kray in Brian Helgeland's brutal portrait of the notorious gangsters.

One helping of the London-born leading man, with his imposing physical presence and willingness to delve into the darkest recesses of the human psyche, is usually an emotionally bruising treat.

A double dose of Hardy should be an overflowing feast for the senses.

Surprisingly, the neat gimmick of casting the same actor in dual roles proves an almighty distraction.

Using the visual shorthand of a pair of spectacles to distinguish between the two Krays, Hardy plays Ronnie as a blackly humorous psychopath, who seems to be one giggle shy of Jack Nicholson's Joker.

Reggie, as a dutiful son, always puts family ties ahead of personal desires.

"My loyalty to my brother is how I measure myself," he confides.

Helgeland's period drama is torn between these two very different faces of the same blood-spattered coin.

Ultimately, the film comes apart at the seams as it lurches between tenderness and lurid violence to lay bare the unshakeable bond between the brothers.

Reggie and identical twin Ronnie own a lucrative club in London, where the rich and famous rub shoulders with bad boys and criminals.

With guidance from business manager Leslie Payne (David Thewlis), the club goes from strength to strength and

Twin: Tom Hardy
as Ronnie Kray

the brothers entertain a transatlantic union with organised crime boss Meyer Lansky.

"London is going to be the Las Vegas of Europe," grins Lansky's associate Angelo Bruno (Chazz Palminteri).

On the mean streets of the capital, the Krays continue a brutal turf war with Charlie Richardson (Paul Bettany) and remain one step ahead of Detective Superintendent Leonard "Nipper" Read (Christopher Eccleston).

Reggie embarks on a giddy romance with 16-year-old Frances Shea (Emily Browning), sister of his driver Frankie (Colin Morgan), despite vociferous protests from her mother (Tara Fitzgerald).

The relationship coincides with Ronnie's turbulent affair with Edward Smith (Taron Egerton).

Sibling rivalry intensifies and Reggie struggles to contain his brother's sadistic impulses and keep Frances on an even keel.

Based on the book The Profession of Violence, by John Pearson, Legend captures the fashions and sounds of 1950s and 1960s' London with aplomb – but the abrupt shifts in pace and tone are deeply discomfiting.

Individually, Hardy's portrayals of Ronnie and Reggie are fascinating – but placed side by side, they induce a cinematic headache.

Supporting cast are similarly torn between understated (Browning) and exaggerated (Egerton), including a colourful turn from John Sessions as a slippery Conservative peer, who enjoys the company of young men.

The running time drags in places, but it's hard to tear your eyes from the screen, even when Helgeland's film seems to be careening wildly out of control.

FIVE QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR ESTATE AGENT

Asking your estate agent how much they charge is not the only question to ask. Nadia Lanitis from Ellis & Co Enfield brings you the top five questions which will help you select the best agent to sell your home. The fees an estate agent charges is often based on local competition. Although one estate agent might have a lower fee, they may not be able to help you achieve the result you want. Asking the following top five questions will help you to select the estate agent who can sell your home effectively.

It is likely that you have already invited a few estate agents round your home for a valuation before you decide on which one to select. During the valuations, make sure you ask each agent how they have come to the valuation. They should be able to offer a detailed answer for the valuation and the level of detail will give you an indicator of their expertise.

Always ask the estate agent if they have sold similar properties before. Agents often specialise in selling specific types of homes, and you might find that you have a swifter sale if they know exactly how to sell your property. However, many agents do sell a range of property and you might find that your preferred agent is experienced in selling large country houses as well as city centre apartments.

It's a good idea to ask the estate agents exactly how they propose to market your home. Be sure to ask if it will be listed on the major national search portals and the local newspapers to gain wide exposure for your property. You should also find out what materials they will produce for your property. Will they take professional photographs, for example, and will they create a professional brochure. These all add to the appeal of your property to buyers and it is important that your home looks as attractive as possible to achieve the right price. If you are selling an executive property, ask them how the marketing will differ as high-end properties tend to require a different marketing strategy to appeal to the target audience.

Before selecting your agent, make sure you ask about the contract. There are a few different options including sole selling rights, sole agency and multi agency. Ask your agency which contract they use and why. They should be able to explain to you the full picture of the contract in detail and point out the pros compared to the others. But don't just take their word for it; do your own research and weigh up which one would work for you. You can then discuss any concerns you have about the contract in person, over the phone or by email to ensure you are feel comfortable before you enlist their services.

Finally, don't forget to ask how you can contact them. They should provide you with at least one telephone number and an email address so you can get in contact with any questions along the way. Having the ability to get in touch without feeling like you are pestering your estate agent will relieve an enormous amount of pressure during the selling process.

In general, your gut instinct is usually right. If you get a good feeling about an estate agent, it is probably because you are confident that they can do a good job. Remember, your estate agent wants to sell your home as much as you do, so work with them to uncover any potential problems before they occur.

The Garden House, Hollydell, Hertford, Hertfordshire SG13

The Garden House was recently remodelled to produce over 5000 sq ft of family home. Hidden away on a private road in Hertford's desirable south side, the six bedroom home boasts a beautiful open plan Tom Howley designed kitchen, three receptions, and a magnificent entrance hall. There are a total of five garage spaces and a stunning mature garden. We highly recommend viewing.

Hertford is a historic market town north of London in the East Hertfordshire countryside, regarded as one of the most desirable in the UK. The town features excellent schools and a healthy economy. Hertford is a great commuter town for London and boasts two train stations with good links to London Kings Cross, Moorgate and Liverpool Street. If you are looking for a leafy vibrant town with a great community, then Hertford is a serious contender.

Tasty KFC does a fine job of making life easy as possible

By Matt Joy

WON'T pretend for a second that motoring journalists aren't a spoiled lot. Even if cars don't do much for you, the idea of having a spanking-new motor on the driveway, paid for by someone else, has to be at least slightly appealing. But you may be surprised to learn that supercars aren't necessarily the last word in pleasure.

KFC (as the NX300h has come to be known) has delivered me safely and comfortably to various parts of the country, on several occasions in order to drive something considerably faster and more expensive – in one instance a car capable of over 200mph and costing more than £250,000.

You'd be forgiven for thinking then that climbing into the four-cylinder hybrid Lexus with its CVT gearbox and modest 112mph top speed would be a bigger comedown than January 1 2000. But the reality is quite different.

It starts before you even climb aboard. With the small fob in your pocket, the keyless entry works seamlessly – a timesaver rather than pointless tech – and you just climb aboard and get comfortable without fuss.

Prod the starter button and the Lexus slips into electric mode straightaway, which has proved a handy means of not waking up the neighbours when heading for the airport at 4am.

Starting at that time of day is never a pleasure, but the Lexus does a fine job of making life as easy as possible. The essential large takeaway coffee sits happily in the cupholders, the low noise levels prevent issues with my sensitive early-morning brain and the radar cruise control is a motorway essential. It shares the workload of M-way drudgery with you and definitely leaves you feeling less tired than journeys without it.

It even manages to deal with the horrors of three moaning children in the back. Being able to recline the rear seat backs in a 60/40 split has come in handy on such occasions, namely to encourage the little darlings to go to sleep on long journeys rather than asking how long it is until we get there. The leather seats have also done a fine job of repulsing whatever nightmarish combination of foodstuffs they see fit to redistribute and a quick run over with the vacuum cleaner puts it right. I'd never have a car with cloth seats again, at least not until they've all turned 18.

I'm also convinced the NX300h has loosened up a little as it seems to be ever more willing and able to deliver indicated fuel consumption well into the 40mpg region. I've yet to give it the full-on eco test run to the office and back, but as it's still two weeks until pay day, there's a good chance that will happen soon.

Sure, I'll never turn down a blat in a pricey supercar should the opportunity arise, but KFC's charms are increasingly welcome and prove the perfect antidote to the hustle and bustle of the real world. Unless you live on a desert island, that's a pretty useful thing to have.

We'll give you the best of both worlds...every week, all week!

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

BOSS IS SATISFIED

Feeling positive: Mauricio Pochettino is happy with Tottenham's summer transfer activity

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino insists that he is happy with Tottenham Hotspur's dealings in the summer transfer window despite their failure to secure the services of Saido Berahino.

Spurs made five signings over the summer, with defenders Toby Alderweireld, Kieran Trippier and Kevin Wimmer and forwards Clinton Njie and Heung-Min Son all joining the club – in addition to Dele Alli, who arrived at White Hart Lane in July after being loaned back to MK Dons when he was signed in January.

However, last Tuesday's transfer deadline day passed without any other new faces arriving, with Tottenham being frustrated in their attempts to bring in striker Berahino from West Bromwich Albion.

This has left Spurs seemingly short of cover for Harry Kane up front, but Pochettino is confident that he does have a squad that can compete.

"I look at our squad and I know we have worked well to shape it," he said. "Strengthening our defence was a priority given the number of goals we conceded last season. Toby, Kevin and Kieran add depth and quality.

"In Dele, Son and Clinton we have three young, fast and exciting players who can play in several different attacking positions, giving us good options. All of them had impressive seasons in their respective leagues last season and we are excited about their potential alongside that of our current players.

"I have been very clear that we would only add players who we felt would improve us, and if any one player was not possible then I prefer we do not add for the sake of it.

"Much has been said about us only having one recognised striker in Harry. I do not accept this at all – the positional play of today's forwards means it's too simplistic to look for goals from any one position, playing a fluid style means players switch. Also we secured Son and Clinton in the knowledge that we may not be adding any other forward."

Pochettino added: "This season we start with a combination of our own players who have come through the ranks and players that bring skills and experience from other leagues. Most importantly, it's a squad of players with heart – it's a squad I'm proud to field."

However, long-serving winger Aaron Lennon left the club on deadline day as he made the move to Everton, joining a long list of departures over the summer which also includes Roberto Soldado, Paulinho, Etienne Capoue, Lewis Holtby, Benjamin Stambouli, Vlad Chiriches and Younes Kaboul.

North London stave off threat of drop

NORTH LONDON ended their season on a high on Saturday as they beat Kenton by seven wickets to firmly banish the threat of relegation from Division Three of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

A good run of form in recent weeks had seen North London climb off the foot of the table, but they still needed to pick up at least a winning draw from this match to be certain of avoiding the drop.

And they achieved this in style as Tom Wakeford took 5-41 to help dismiss Kenton for 135, before Ralph Pedersen's unbeaten 86 guided North London to 139-3 in reply as they climbed up from ninth to sixth in the final table.

Meanwhile, champions Highgate ensured that they finished the season unbeaten by winning by 57 runs at home to second-placed Barnes to end the campaign 36 points clear at the top.

Hashen Ramanayake (68) and Chris Arul (46) were the main contributors as Highgate posted 193 batting first, with Rich Craig taking 6-81.

Craig Gourlay (6-42) then shone with the ball as Barnes could only make 136 in reply despite 54 from Simon Auteri.

Elsewhere, North Middlesex ended their campaign with a comfortable five-wicket win at home to Indian Gymkhana to seal fifth place in the Premier Division.

Ed Bird (4-17) and Connor

Nurse (3-23) did much of the damage as the visitors were bowled out for 124 and Sam Webber then top-scored with a quick-fire 39 as North Middlesex eased to 128-5 in reply.

But Hornsey had to settle for a losing draw from their home game against Enfield in Division Two.

Paul Weekes (4-44) bowled well as Enfield made 183-6 in a rain-shortened match, with Sam Wilson (74 not out) leading the way.

Hornsey struggled in reply though and they needed Jack Goldberg's battling 36 to help them stave off the threat of defeat as they closed on 120-8, with Ryan Cunningham taking 4-30.

Another defeat for struggling Borough

A DRAMATIC match ended in disappointment for Haringey Borough as they were beaten 3-2 at Thurrock in the Ryman Premier Division on Saturday.

Borough, who are rooted to the foot of the table and are still searching for their first win, had keeper Ashley Harris to thank for preventing them from falling behind as he deflected Charlie Stimson's lob on to the bar and over.

Moments later the visitors took the lead as Shaun Beveaney found himself with a clear sight of goal, and he made no mistake by drilling into the net.

Thurrock piled on the pressure after falling behind, and they eventually got back on level terms as Jordan Clark scored from the spot after Lewwis Spence had been brought down in the box.

Haringey managed to survive until the interval without conceding again, but the hosts struck within five minutes of the restart – Spence collecting Ross Wall's pass just outside the box and unleashing a swerving shot which went just inside the post.

to look the more threatening side, Borough refused to lie down and were rewarded for their efforts with an equaliser as Daniel Ailey scored from distance.

Both sides pressed in search of a winner, but it was the hosts who struck the decisive blow when Reece Morgan put over a cross from the left which Jason Fontaine powerfully headed into the net to ensure that Borough ended up empty-handed.

Haringey Borough go to Potters Bar Town in the first qualifying round of the FA Cup on Saturday (3pm).
